Typical tube label

An abridged version of the working of the Dill Tube System:

1. On the back of every button there is a two digit price-key number.
2. All buttons with the same price-key number have the same wholesale and retail price. See table above for pricing.
3. The wholesale price of the individual price series can be seen from the list of the price series.
4. The retail price can be determined individually and can thus be adapted to local conditions.
5. For stock-taking or similar purposes you only need to add up the tubes with the same number because all those series have the same wholesale price.

How to re-order buttons

Every button has a six-digit unique number. For example, 170243.

The first two digits are the price group the button belongs in. The button in the example is in price group 17.

The next four digits are the button number. 0243 is the unique design, size and colour for this button.

To re-order this button all you need is the number 170243.

To order a replacement tube of buttons please enter the quantity of buttons in the tube. For this example button you will type 30.

Many designs come in different sizes, but the price group and button design number will be different.

To find a button on Dill's website (www.dill-buttons.com), simply type in the unique six-digit number. There is a button to click to explore all the different sizes and colours in that design. This way you'll also be able to get the product code number for other buttons in that range.

Habico codes

All Dill buttons start with D/ then the price group, followed by the button number.

Our code for the button above is D/17/170243.
